December 3rd - International Day of Persons with Disabilities

Charlottetown – CUPE PEI is urging its members, as well as all Islanders, to support disabled persons “All Over the World” who struggle for recognition and acceptance.

December 3rd has been set aside by the United Nations, as the International Day of Persons with Disabilities. This day was set aside to create awareness and an understanding of issues and challenges facing persons with disabilities’, explained Milo Murray, President of CUPE PEI.

It is very important to garner support for their legal and social rights on this day.’

CUPE members across Canada and on the Island, celebrate this day to remind us all of the importance of accessibility for all. ‘We all benefit from the valuable input and involvement of persons with disabilities”, added Murray.

CUPE is committed to defending the rights of persons with disabilities and aims to promote an understanding of disability issues, and gains to be derived from their integration in every aspect of their communities.
